Lighthouse leadership team-

The Dispatch article is online. The article is straightforward and includes key messages from Ed and Dan, despite the stark headline. Here's a key quote:

"We want to make sure patients and loved ones have all the information about their prognosis and their treatment choices and what the realistic prognoses are so that they can make a fully informed decision," he said. "That's our obligation for these people, and it's never more important than in situations when someone is critically ill."

Kudos to Melissa Lander and Samantha Irons for leading this effort and influencing the Dispatch coverage. We'll track other local and national coverage and discuss during our 4pm call today.
